LECTURA DE COMPRENSION

La siguiente es una adaptación de la fábula La lechera, de Esopo. Léala cuidadosamente y luego conteste las preguntas.

THE MILKMAID

Bessy was a young girl who worked as a milkmaid on a farm. She was a dreamer. She was often so immersed in her dreams, that reality and imagination got confused in her mind.

The cows were extra generous one day, and Mrs. Grant, the owner of the farm, gave Bessy a big jug of milk for herself. Bessy was very happy. She decided to sell the milk, so when work was over, she set the big jug on her head and started walking to the market.

The day was clear and bright, and Bessy felt optimistic. She began to make plans in her mind. She thought: "With the money I get from selling this milk I am going to buy a basket with eggs. I'll have them hatched, and I will obtain one hundred chicks that by summer will surround me chirping happily. Then I am going to sell the chickens, and with what I get from them, I am going to buy a pig. I will feed the pig well, and it will get big and fat. I will also sell the pig, and with the money I receive from selling the pig I will buy a cow. The cow will give me milk everyday, and I will sell it, and save the money I earn, and then buy myself with it a beautiful silk dress for the country fair dance. I will be the belle of the dance, and all the boys will want to dance with me, and I will choose the richest and handsomest one. All the girls will want to talk to me and be my friends, but I will raise my head proudly and talk to no one."

With this thought, Bessy effectively tossed her head back, and, as she did, the jug turned sideways and fell, and the milk spilled on the ground, and was soon absorbed by it, and disappeared completely, and with it disappeared the eggs, and the chickens, and the pig, and the cow, and the beautiful dress, and poor Bessy had to return home with her empty jug.
